Pub Board Unable to Reach Decision on Kaimin Policy

Central Board Defeats Proposal Concerning Kaimin Editorials

Publication Board failed in its attempt to make a recommendation to Central Board concerning a bylaw proposal of Planning Committee which would force the Kaimin to sign editorials endorsing candidates for ASMSU office.

A motion to adopt the bylaws died for lack of a second.

With only four voting members present out of seven and with two members abstaining, Publications Board failed also to get a quorum to pass a proposal introduced by Ted Hulbert, a Publications Board member.

Hulbert's proposal was that Publications Board recommend that no change was advisable in the Publications Statement of Policies, adopted in 1948. The spirit of Planning Committee's recommendation regarding editorials already is embodied in the Statement of Policies, Hulbert's proposal said. The Statement of Policies, it said, cautions against editorials which are not arrived at with deliberation; the Statement cautions also against unwarranted attacks on individuals or groups.

The intention of the Statement of Policies, the proposal said, is to insure a continuing free and responsible press for the student body of the University and the concept of a free and responsible press implies equal expression of views in opposition to those of the editorial staff.

Swimming Party Slated for Nov. 17

The Student Union Beach Party will take place on the "sands" of the University Pool Nov. 17 at 8 p.m.

The swimming and dance party is 50 cents and is open to all students, according to Mary Lou Penzely, chairman of Special Events Committee. A bathing suit (worn, of course) is the only other requirement to get in.

Dale Frank and the Five Sharps will provide the music.

Crash of Airliner Kills 77 of 79; Identification May Be Impossible

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Seventy-seven persons, nearly all of them young Army recruits on their way to camp for basic training, perished near here last night in the flaming crash of an Imperial Airlines Constellation.

Only the pilot and the flight engineer of the big plane, which carried 74 servicemen and a crew of five, survived when it crashed into a marshy woodland ravine while attempting an emergency landing at Richmond's Byrd Field with two of its four engines dead. Firemen played streams of foam extinguisher on the smoldering skeleton of the plane in the early morning hours.

A Civil Air Patrol officer at the scene, Lt. Col. Alfred C. Nowitzky, said identification might never be complete.

"All the bodies were consumed that were left in the plane," Nowitzky said.

The library will be closed Saturday for Armed Forces Day, according to Mrs. Mabel Brewer, reference assistant.

The library will be open Sunday at the usual hours.

Dave Browman stated the basis for the bylaw.

"The Kaimin is not a free paper in that it is a compulsory paper. Every student going to the University is required to support the paper whether he wishes to or not. We (Planning Committee) recognize that the freedom of the press for free newspapers, but we feel the rights of 4,000 students on this campus takes precedence over the rights of one individual," Browman said.

Seattle Lawyer Donates to Fund

A Seattle lawyer who does not want his identity known has donated an additional $200 to the George H. Bovingdon Scholarship fund, according to Dean Robert E. Sullivan of the law school.

The donor created the scholarship fund in 1960 in honor of Bovingdon, a Seattle attorney and an alumnus of the MSU law school, Mr. Sullivan said.

Robert G. Anderson, Shelby, and Jacques Best, Fort Peck, are the two law students currently receiving aid from the fund, Mr. Sullivan added.

Growlers Elect Carr President

Judy Carr was elected president of the Grizzly Growlers last week, according to Jim Erickson, past president of the organization and Traditions Board member.

Other officers elected are Karen Staiger, vice president, and Karen Thunem, secretary, Erickson said.

Grizzly Growlers is a freshman pep organization under the sponsorship of Traditions Board.

The Growlers meet each Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Lodge. Membership is open to all freshmen, Erickson said.

The goal of the group is to get enough members for a card section at basketball games, Erickson added.

President's Wife Postpones Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has decided on a two-month postponement of her cultural trip to India and Pakistan. She now will go in January.

The White House, announcing the change yesterday, said India's visiting Prime Minister Nehru had persuaded the First Lady "to make a more leisurely visit" and be on hand for celebration of India's Republic Day Jan. 26. Also, the White House said, the delay will permit a less hurried and more comprehensive trip to Pakistan as well.

Kennedy Will Ask Additional Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said yesterday he will ask additional defense funds

By PRINTER BOWLER
After more than an hour and a half debate, Central Board defeated a proposed bylaw that would make editorial writers on the Montana Kaimin sign editorials that supported political candidates, and allow equal space for those unsupported candidates to make a rebuttal.

The argument for the proposal was initiated by Dave Browman. His main reason was that he felt that the reader should know who is writing editorials because the Kaimin represents all of the University and not just the opinions of the editorial staff. He said that when the "selfish interests" of any person were supported by the Kaimin, the reader should be made aware that this support came from an individual and not an institution.

Model U.N. Applications Due Nov. 21

Students interested in participating in the Model United Nations should receive their application forms at Room 257 of the Liberal Arts Building before Nov. 21, according to John Carlson, vice-president of ASMSU.

About 10 MSU students will be chosen to represent MSU as Nationalist China at San Diego in April. Five stand-by delegates will be chosen as replacements for regular or alternate delegates who may not be able to go to the M.U.N. session.

During the week of Nov. 27, each applicant must appear before a board, composed of three students and two faculty members, which will select the delegates. Each applicant will be notified by mail of the exact time and place of his interview.

next year to maintain the U.S. military position.

Kennedy told his news conference that the United States is obliged to remain the strongest military force on the earth.

And, as before, he declared his confidence in this country's present position, saying he would trade it with no other nation on the globe.

Montana Marks Birthday as State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There was no fanfare yesterday as Montana marked its 72nd birthday as a state.

After two false starts and three constitutional conventions, Montana became the nation's 41st state at 10:40 a.m. Nov. 8, 1889.

That was when President Benjamin Harrison signed a proclamation that said Montana had completed all the steps necessary to become one of the United States.

Montana had about 140,000 White residents when statehood was achieved. Twenty years before there had been 100. Today the population is about 675,000.

Frank Walsh, Kaimin editor, said that it wasn't the specific bylaw he questioned, but rather the principle of Central Board's intended action. He said that if the proposed restrictions were placed on the editorial staff it would act as a precedent for further restrictions.

"It is the violation of this principle that I cannot tolerate," Walsh said. "If this proposal is passed, it will open the door to others and will jeopardize the freedom of the Kaimin."

An apparent misunderstanding and ignorance of the Statement of Policies established by Publications Board in 1948 was evident in the argument for the proposal. The Statement contains the policies which govern all campus publications. In it is contained a section (Sec. I, Art. E.) which states that all editorials not expressing the opinion of the editor shall be signed by the author. Therefore, those unsigned are those written by the editor and editorials written to support candidates which are unsigned are presumably also written by the editor.

Ed Whitelaw and Tosh Tatsuyama brought out the point that editorials are opinions of the editor, since the Kaimin's policy is that

Jubileers Appear On Concert Hour

The "Jubileers," MSU singing group, was featured in the regular Wednesday night radio broadcast of the "University Concert Hall."

The Jubileers, under the direction of Ken Smith, offered selections from "Robert" by Jerome Kern; a Negro spiritual, "Set Down, Servant" arranged by Robert Shaw; a folk song, "Black Is the Color of My True Love's Hair" and other numbers.

The 30-minute broadcast is heard live each Wednesday night in Missoula, over KGVO at 9:15. The program is subsequently sent to other radio stations throughout the state.

The Jubileers will be featured again on the Concert Hall, during the holiday season, in a special program of Christmas music. The date and time will be announced later.

Next week, the University Concert Hall will feature George Lewis, tenor.

MAS to Present Science Students Research Awards

LeRoy Harvey, executive secretary of the Montana Academy of Sciences, has announced that research awards will be presented to high school students for the fourth consecutive year in the 1961-62 school year.

The awards are made possible by the American Association for the Advancement of Science and distributed by MAS, Mr. Harvey said.

Students are selected to receive the grants in the spring 1962 and will report on their research projects at the academy's annual meeting in 1962.

The grants are awarded each year to stimulate student research in the sciences, Mr. Harvey said.

The Academy committee which selects the winners is composed of Donald Orlich, graduate fellow at MSU, chairman; William Schwartz of the MSC mathematics department; Albert Finley, Choteau High School physics teacher; and Donald Holmquist, Park County High School chemistry teacher.

editorials must have the editor's approval before publication.

In this manner it was suggested that the bylaw was redundant. John Carlson had stated the importance of identifying the author of any editorial appearing in the Kaimin, and especially those concerning support for political candidates. The Statement of Policies already identifies the author.

In other business, CB approved $218 to send John Carlson to a Student United Nations Convention in New York on Nov. 10-11.

The MSU bowling team was allocated funds to attend a tournament at Montana State College this weekend. A measure which will allocate $321 to balance the AWS budget was adopted.

Grizzly Special Might Make It

"We'll make it," said Hal Wood, Traditions Board chairman, yesterday.

The latest count shows that the quota for train tickets to the MSU-MSC game in Bozeman Saturday is short by 90 tickets. In order to avoid a deficit, Traditions Board must sell 360 tickets to meet the cost of chartering a train to Bozeman.

Regardless of the amount of tickets sold, said Wood, the train will be chartered for the Bozeman trip. Round trip tickets which cost $7.50 are on sale today and tomorrow in the Lodge.

Wood reminded students that the train will have a special car for dancing and other entertainment.

Faculty Senate Elects Officers

C. Rulon Jeppesen, chairman of the physics department, was elected chairman of the Faculty Senate at the senate organizational meeting last week.

Thomas Payne, chairman of the political science department, was elected vice chairman and Leo Smith, registrar, is secretary.

The Senate met to establish rules of procedure and by-laws for the constitution. Committees were also organized and members appointed.

Nathan B. Blumberg, dean of the journalism school, became a member of the Senate upon the resignation of Walter Hook, chairman of the art department. Melvin S. Morris, professor of forestry, was promoted to a two-year term.

The Senate's objectives are to discuss and solve problems concerning curriculum, admission of students, graduate students, changes in electives and other academic matters. It also serves as a medium of communications between the members of the faculty and the administration.

In addition to the mentioned purposes, the Faculty Senate serves as a forum for the faculty. Because of the increased size of MSU and the teaching staff, a smaller group was needed to handle affairs of the faculty. Such an organization is found in the Senate.

Going, Going Gone

Is it enough for a group or an organization of groups to control, by virtue of their organization, a government or must they also accept the responsibility of the government?

Can a group or organization of groups which controls a government represent, or remain in some kind of contact with, or know the problems of, a variety of groups of which they are only one?

No Greek will deny the organization of the Greeks. No one should oppose or have reason to oppose this organization. However, when, because of this organization, the Greeks control government, they assume the responsibility of a representative government that is impossible for them to fulfill. (This is the problem, not the belongingness of a social organization.)

What kind of leadership can the Greeks exert, as they say they do, when although the government is controlled by them, they continue to permit the non-representative of ASMSU to function without change?

By the very fact that the Greeks continue their dominant position in student government they have accepted the challenge for better government—a challenge that needs recognition.

Both the need for better government and the Greek control of student government have been expressed by spokesmen for the social organizations.

"We don't need more government, but better government.

"If the Greeks have control of the student government it is because of their interest and because of the deep-rooted apathy of the majority of MSU's student body, not a matter of dirty politics."

Come Forth and Be Counted

Where in the Greek-dominated student government are the independents? Some independent students have participated greatly in the student government. However, for the majority of the independents, the apathy is even more profound than with the Greeks because the organization is not pushing them.

The independents, some of whom were once interested in Greek belongingness, as a whole, pride themselves on being so independent that they divorce themselves from most of student government. The separation is so complete that student government is considered "sucker work."

These same independents are the first to criticize student government and its activities, but yet, they, or a great majority of them, do not vote. The fact that all students recognize student government by paying a student activity fee (a requirement accepted by the student body in acquiescence) places the responsibility of participation with the independent as much as, if not more than, the Greeks.

The independents say they do not need the belongingness that motivates the Greeks—or do they?

Express Leadership

As it now stands the Greeks control the government, and the independents just don't give a damn. This problem falls under the jurisdiction of Planning Committee whose duties are: "This committee shall consider long range structural and constitutional plans for the co-ordination of ASMSU activities."

Some persons have tried to amend ASMSU to be more representative and more efficient. These persons, for a number of reasons, have failed.

How much better it would be if a committee of Central Board and Central Board itself were to work out a more representative government.

A structural change could free the Greeks from the responsibility they cannot fill, and put the Independents in a "put up or shut up" situation.

Sorority Officer Answers Accusations

To the Kaimin:

(The following is a public letter to Carl Cain—Ed.)

As a "little girl" executive officer, I am curious as to the fact upon which you base your ungrounded accusations of the Greek system being extended childhood.

Granted, a second grader could admire a big brother or sister, and do what his parents tell him, but I have yet to see a Greek organization that is led with a big stick and requires its members to follow in a childlike fashion. From my experience in my own group, I know that a leader cannot survive in such a way. To be successful, he (she) must rather guide the group with assistance and co-operation of other officers as well as the entire group. I can name several others in the same capacity as I am who will wholeheartedly agree with me. How can you possibly be well enough acquainted with administration within Greek organization to criticize it as such when you are not even affiliated with it?

As to the limitations imposed by Greek organizations of which you spoke, I can only say that obviously they are limited. What organizations aren't? Have you ever seen a boy in a Girl Scout troop? Have you ever seen a Protestant in the Knights of Columbus? Have you ever seen a Greek in the Independent organization? The very nature of a group tells us that its members band together because they do have common characteristics, interests, and goals. Our entire society is group oriented, beginning with the United States of America, and continuing down through states, counties, cities, civic and religious groups within cities, and eventually down to the family. Each of these groups has a leader; each has qualifications and common bonds for membership. These bonds produce the loyalties necessary to the group's survival as an entity.

The Greeks are not planning for a step by step—crises by crises—takeover of student government. We support our candidates just as Independents support theirs. The leaders are selected from the entire student body, Greeks as well as non-Greeks. Incidentally, the Greeks are a minority on the campus; therefore a single Greek organization could not possibly railroad a candidate through. As far as interest in student government goes, Carl, check the statistics and you'll see who shows the greater relative interest.

Speaking for Greeks in general, I can say that we all welcome and accept validated and constructive criticism. As for this trite, amateur psychology and unverified fact, it is better left unsaid.

President, Kappa Kappa Gamma
MARLYS NELSON

P. S. Didn't you get a bid, Carl?

Criticisms Termed 'Narrow-Minded'

To the Kaimin:

I cannot ignore Carl Cain's narrow-minded criticisms of fraternities. He's just the sort of person who would criticize God, motherhood and the flag. He probably doesn't even appreciate Century Club's religious devotion to the cause of scholarship and sportsmanship.

Obviously he has never been a member of the brotherhood as I have. My association with the Sigma Chi fraternity was one of the most rewarding, enriching, enlightening, uplifting, gratifying, and above all, educational experiences of my life.

So you can imagine how heart-stricken I was when I was informed that I could not become an active. I was a pledge in the fall of 1953 along with 48 other civic minded, unprejudiced, sensible, courageous, independently-spirited students. But one evening I was brought before the Tribunal and informed that in spite of my overall superior qualifications, I unfortunately had developed the bad attitude, and if I didn't properly appreciate the loftier goals of brotherhood, I would be unwelcome among other reasonable, rational, cosmopolitan individuals.

Unfortunately almost 40 of us never met the standard. Only 10 students went active that quarter.

But in later life I was fortunate in finding comradeship with much the same sort of organization as the lofty Sigma Chi fraternity. However, for the sake of efficiency, since we are very, very busy people and have so little time to seek out friends, this organization has dispensed with the trivia of brotherhood, civic duty, etc., and devotes itself wholeheartedly to sex, alcohol and television.

So there, Carl Cain.

SN Captures Intramural Championship

By DOUG KIENITZ

Sigma Nu's passing attack directed by quarterback Hal Westburg proved to be too much for the Clods yesterday as SN won the intramural football championship 20 to 6 on the Clover Bowl.

This was the first game of the season that the Clods defense allowed a point to be scored and they had won nine straight games prior to yesterday.

The Clods received the opening kick-off but could not move the ball and Jack Dowell punted. SN took over with the ball on their 10-yard line and behind quarterback Westburg's passing moved to the Clods two-yard line where a Westburg pass to Don Morrison went for the touchdown. The extra-point pass also from Westburg to Morrison was good and SN led 7 to 0. The first quarter ended with a Clod pass being intercepted on the SN 5-yard line.

On the first play of the second quarter SN's Westburg passed to Bill Boettcher and he outran the entire Clod secondary for SN's second touchdown. The kick for the extra point was blocked. SN then led 13 to 0.

The second half ended with Dee Pohlman of the Clods intercepting a pass deep in Clod territory.

SN's third touchdown came late in the third quarter when Jon Shelton received a pass from Westburg and scampered 20 yards for the touchdown. The kick for the extra point was good and SN led 20 to 0.

Earlier in the period the Clods had intercepted a pass and returned the ball to the SN 4-yard line but the play was nullified by a Clod penalty.

The defenses toughened in the fourth quarter and neither team could move the ball exceptionally well. Midway through the quarter SN's Scott Bettesworth attempted a field goal from 20 yards out but it fell short. Just before the attempt Dave Hilger took over quarterback duties for SN and proceeded to complete three straight passes. However, the Clod defense along with a penalty nullified the gains.

Later in the fourth period SN punted and the Clods took over on the SN 20-yard line. Three straight passes from Clod quarterback Jerry Luchau eluded the intended receivers in the end zone, but on the fourth attempt Luchau hit Brent Russell for a touchdown. The try for the extra point was a pass from Luchau but it was knocked out of the intended receiver's hands. The score was then SN 20 and Clods 6.

The victory over the Clods gave SN the right to play Montana State College's intramural champion Saturday morning in Bozeman prior to the varsity grid tussle between the Grizzlies and Bobcats.

Phi Delta Theta Tops Sigma Chi To Settle First-Place Dispute

A field goal booted by Pete Peters in the second quarter gave Phi Delta Theta a 3 to 0 victory over Sigma Chi in a hard-fought contest on the Clover Bowl yesterday.

The victory gave PDT the Fraternity League championship and possession of the interfraternity football trophy. The teams tied for the title during regular-season play with 7-1 records.

Sigma Chi's offense was unable to penetrate deep enough into Phi Delt territory to present a serious threat, but PDT moved to within 15 yards yards of the SX goal three times during the contest. An intercepted pass and loss of the ball on downs thwarted the PDT's scoring hopes.

Bunky Held tried to boot a field goal for Sigma Chi in the third quarter, but the kick was wide and the score remained 3 to 0. The kick was attempted from about the mid-field stripe.

Both teams were able to advance on short passes during the game, but long passes evaded receivers and fell incomplete.

Although the MSU Grizzlies have completed their Skyline Conference games for this season, they still lead in passing offense with no change in the other five departments. Utah State continues to dominate the league as they hold the lead in the other five categories of team statistics.

Five Grizzlies are ranked in the individual statistics. They are Mike Trotter, Paul Gustafson, Bob O'Billovich, Pat Dodson, and Ron Werba.

Montana leads the conference in offensive passing for the second consecutive week with an average of 115 yards per game. Grizzly passers have completed 39 of 94 passes attempted for 693 yards and four touchdowns.

The Grizzly offense again ranks fifth with 244 yards per game while Utah State's total offense leads the league with 387 yards—one of the major reasons that they are undefeated this year.

Montana's running attack has been able to grind out only 128 yards a game, quite a comparison to the Utah State speedsters who have averaged 284 yards.

In total defense the Grizzlies rank sixth having allowed 337 yards per game, while USU has allowed the opposition only 116 yards.

Montana's rushing defense has given the opposing runners 230 yards per game which is sixth in the team statistics. Utah State, in eight games, has allowed the opposition only 41 yards per game.

MSU's pass defense has allowed the opposition 106 yards per game for a sixth place ranking. They have completed the fewest passes (43) but 10 of the completions went for touchdowns, most in the league.

USU's aerial defense has allowed the opposing passers only 74 yards per game with four passes going for touchdowns.

End Mike Trotter ranks third

Grizzlies Retain Passing Lead, USU Still Dominates Statistics

in pass receiving with 11 completions for 150 yards. Utah's Joe Borich holds a commanding lead with 24 receptions for 436 yards.

Grizzly punter Paul Gustafson in 19 attempts has averaged 35 yards for a fifth place ranking in the league. Bill Wright, Brigham Young, leads the Skyline and the nation with a 42-yard average.

Halfback Pat Dodson ranks seventh in kickoff returns with an average of 21 yards, fifth in pass completions with nine for 179 yards, and ninth in scoring with 24 points on four touchdowns.

MSU fullback Ron Werba is fifth in scoring with 30 points on five touchdowns. Utah State's Tom Larscheid leads this category with 11 touchdowns and two extra points for a total of 68.

Quarterback Bob O'Billovich has completed 17 passes in 44 attempts for 332 yards and an eighth place ranking in forward passing. He also is ninth in total offense leaders with 394 yards and three touchdowns.

POVERTY CAN BE FUN

It is no disgrace to be poor. It is an error, but it is no disgrace.

So if your purse is empty, do not skulk and brood and hide your head in shame. Stand tall. Admit your poverty. Admit it freely and frankly and all kinds of good things will happen to you. Take, for instance, the case of Blossom Sigafos.

Blossom, an impecunious freshman at an Eastern girls' college, was smart as a whip and round as a dumpling, and scarcely a day went by when she didn't get invited to a party weekend at one of the nearby men's schools. But Blossom never accepted. She did not have the rail fare; she did not have the clothes. Weekend after weekend, while her classmates went frolicking, Blossom sat alone, saved from utter despair only by her pack of Marlboros, for even an exchequer as slim as Blossom's can afford the joys of Marlboro—joys far beyond their paltry price: rich, mellow tobaccos, lovingly cured and carefully packed, and an exclusive selectrate filter. Croesus himself could not buy a better cigarette!

However, Marlboro's most passionate admirers—among whose number I am paid to count myself—would not claim that Marlboro can entirely replace love and romance, and Blossom grew steadily moroser.

"Accept these Gifts from Tom."

Then one day came a phone call from an intelligent sophomore named Tom O'Shanter at a nearby men's college. "Blossom," said Tom, "I want you to come down next week for the barley festival, and I won't take no for an answer."

"No," said Blossom.

"Foolish girl," said Tom gently. "I know why you refuse me. It is because you are poor, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Blossom.

"I will send you a railroad ticket," said Tom. "Also a hard-boiled egg in case you get hungry on the train."

"But I have nothing to wear," said Blossom.

Tom replied, "I will send you one suit of cashmere, two gowns of lace, three slacks of velvet, four shoes of calf, five socks of nylon, and a partridge in a pear tree."

"That is most kind," said Blossom, "but I fear I cannot dance and enjoy myself while back home my poor lame brother Tiny Tim lies abed."

"Send him to Mayo Brothers and put it on my tab," said Tom.

"You are terribly decent," said Blossom, "but I cannot come to your party because all the other girls at the party will be from rich, distinguished families, and my father is but a humble woodcutter."

"I will buy him Yosemite," said Tom.

"You have a great heart," said Blossom. "Hold the phone while I ask our wise and kindly old Dean of Women whether it is proper for me to accept all these gifts."

She went forthwith and asked the Dean of Women, and the Dean of Women laid her wise and kindly old hand on Blossom's cheek and said, "Child, let not false pride rob you of happiness. Accept these gifts from Tom."

"Oh, bless you, Wise and Kindly," breathed Blossom, dropping grateful tears into the Dean's reticule. "I must run and tell Tom."

"Yes, run, child," said the Dean, a smile wrinkling her wise and kindly old eyes. "And ask him has he got an older brother."
